

Sofia Leon
Climate Innovation & Fundraising Lead
The Nature Conservancy in Florida

Sofia Leon joined The Nature Conservancy (TNC) in Florida in 2017 and is currently Climate Innovation & Fundraising Lead. She splits her time between the philanthropy and climate strategy teams at the Florida Chapter. In this role, Sofia serves as a critical leader and relationship builder in connecting donors, partners, and internal staff as it relates to the Florida Chapter's Climate and Fundraising efforts. She manages the Miami Council, an advisory group made up of select group of professionals across Miami whose goal is to help create bridges between the work of TNC and the greater community and catalyze climate innovation in Miami.

Sofia obtained a Master's in Public Administration and a Bachelor's in International Relations from Florida International University. She is from Lima, Peru and moved to Florida in the early 1990's. Prior to joining TNC in 2017, Sofia spent three years in Lima, working for international NGOs in the areas of environmental conservation, gender equity and community development.
